BERKSHIRE-BASED COMMUNITY MEMBERS
COME TOGETHER IN DEVELOPMENT OF A COLLABORATIVE PERFORMANCE FOR PITTSFIELD MOVES!

July 12, 2018—(Becket, MA) Berkshire community members come together to present a collaborative performance created as part of the year-long engagement project, Pittsfield Moves! Shepherded by the New York City-based collaborative performance company Angela’s Pulse, this work illuminates marginalized narratives, breaks down regional silos, and deepens connections through creative practice. Developed through community residencies in July, the work will be performed as part of the Inside/Out Performance Series at Jacob’s Pillow on July 26, and at the Berkshire NAACP’s 45th annual Gather-In on July 28 in Pittsfield’s Durant Park.

Pittsfield Moves! was conceived by Jacob’s Pillow in collaboration with lead partner The Berkshire Bridges – Working Cities Pittsfield Initiative to help local stakeholders within educational, social, and economic justice organizations develop a practice of storytelling and relationship building through movement. This work was commissioned by Jacob’s Pillow, in partnership with the Working Cities Initiative, and made possible by funding from the Ford Foundation.

Participants will include community members connected to each partner organization, as well as a community ensemble of up to 30 people. Berkshire County partner organizations include Working Cities, Youth Alive!, NAACP Berkshire County Branch, Manos Unidas Multicultural Education Cooperative, Railroad Street Youth Project, Berkshire Children & Families, and Transformative Development Initiative, among others.

Pittsfield Moves! launched in fall 2017 with an initial introductory visit by choreographer Paloma McGregor (Director of Angela’s Pulse) and MK Abadoo, an Angela’s Pulse lead facilitator. Following that visit, Angela’s Pulse’s team of artist-organizers—MK Abadoo, Matthew Dicken, Paloma McGregor, and Rosa Navarrete—spent the first half of 2018 on a Listening and Learning tour of Pittsfield and surrounding communities. Beyond July, outgrowths of this work will be woven into locally generated events, seeding possibilities for future visioning and organizing.

The creative and organizing practices of Angela’s Pulse are rooted in the following core values: We are process-oriented; collaboration based; community centered; anti-racist; and embodied. These values and practices are informed by a deep engagement with the People’s Institute for Survival and Beyond’s...
principles of Undoing Racism & Community Organizing and Urban Bush Women’s Entering, Building, and Exiting Community framework.
